Review checklist:

The following are possible reasons an amended or alternative acceleration policy would not be approved due to conflicts with the intentions of the state model policy. While this is not an exhaustive list, ensuring that modifications to the state model policy or alternative policies avoid these conflicts will increase the likelihood of approval.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The policy sets an absolute standard for determining eligibility for acceleration (e.g. “the student must have an IQ score of XXX or above;” “the student must attain scores above the XXth percentile on all areas of an achievement test;” or “the student must be at least X years old by January 1 to be placed in an accelerated setting.”) • Evaluation and placement procedures do not reflect research-based effective acceleration practices. • Evaluation procedures and/or placement criteria would disproportionately limit access to acceleration for some groups of students based on gender, race, ethnicity, disability status, socioeconomic status, English language proficiency, or school building attended. • The policy contains language that discourages parents and educators from seeking evaluation or accelerated placement for students, or creates unreasonable barriers to evaluation and possible accelerated placement. • The policy allows a student to be removed from an acceleration option without the consent of the student’s parent(s). 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The policy does not include a fair and reasonable appeal process. • The policy does not address each of the following types of acceleration: early entrance to kindergarten, individual subject acceleration, whole grade acceleration, early high school graduation. • The policy prohibits early entrance to kindergarten, individual subject acceleration, whole grade acceleration, or early high school graduation. • The policy prohibits acceleration at one or more specific grade levels. • The policy does not allow for referrals for evaluation from parents and educators of students in grades K-12. • The evaluation process does not allow specific opportunities for input from parents and referred students in making decisions about accelerated placement. • The policy does not describe a process for ensuring continuous progress through the curriculum for accelerated students. • The policy requires parents to pay for evaluations needed to make a decision about acceleration.
